

Teak Mansions & Museums

Bangkok

Uncover a number of traditional Thai teak houses, built hundreds of years ago, listen to the stories of their owners and be amazed at the priceless treasures and exquisite artifacts.

Step inside the former home of Jim Thompson and learn about this American's influence on the Thai silk industry and his incredible collection of art, antiques and porcelain. Cross the little canal and seek out some of Thompson's main producers of silk from the past.

Venture to Suan Pakkad Palace, the former private residence of a royal family, who converted the eight small teak pavilions into a museum to house their vast collection of family heirlooms.
