

Traveling by Train through the Shan Hills to Inle Lake

Kalaw

A unique local experience with train that brings you over the mountains and through the valleys to Inle Lake. Amazing views and a glimpse of local life in Hills.

We bring you to the picturesque colonial train station in Kalaw, a hill station during British colonial rule that today is popular for hiking and trekking. You board the 11:58 train that brings you over the mountains and through the valleys to Inle Lake. This is a unique local experience that will reward you with amazing views and a glimpse of local life in the Shan Hills. Your arrival in Shwenyaung is planned at around 15:20, but could be delayed if the train stops longer than normal in local hill tribe villages to load, or off load, local goods. On arrival in Shwenyaung a transfer is arranged to your hotel. This is a great way to reduce carbon emissions by private vehicles and also a fascinating journey that will give you real
