

A Visit to Green School

Abiansemal - Bali

Visit Green School in Abiansemal near Ubud, a school with environmental sustainability at the core of its curriculum.

Students here learn all about the environment and how to be tomorrow's leaders and role models in sustainable living. All bottles on the premises are refilled with filtered water pumped from underground wells, while most school meals are produced with fruit and vegetable grown in the school's gardens. Enough electricity is also generated for the whole school using water from the river at the back of the school. See for yourself how Green School functions and let your guide tell you all about its philosophy, curriculum and involvement in the local community. You will also be shown around the school's impressive bamboo buildings, and get a good idea of how the school's philosophy is put into practice.
