

Banteay Srei & Life on the Lake

Siem Reap

Banteay Srei temple offers an insight into the magnificence of the ancient artisans of the Angkorian era, then journey on the Tonle Sap lake through the village of Kampong Kleang.

Take a stunning drive just out of Siem Reap to explore the incredible carvings at Banteay Srei also known as the pink temple built with uniquely coloured red sandstone. This smaller temple almost feels like a miniature structure compared to other temples of the Angkorian era. Stop at Akira landmine museum before making your way to Kampong Kleang, a village that consists of stilted houses located on the banks of the Tonle Sap lake, board a local fishing boat and travel through this fascinating community and out onto the great lake itself to finish the day with some sundowners as you make your way back to the heart of Siem Reap.
