

Thaung Lay Lone to Indein Ruins by Bike

Inle Lake

Leisurely bike ride from Thaung Lay Lone, to Indein in the southwest. The journey is on mainly flat terrain, food industries and an ancient stupas.

This is a fun and easy way to start your Inle Lake adventure! On arrival at Heho Airport (or from Kalaw or Pindaya) you are driven by car to the starting point of this leisurely bike ride from Thaung Lay Lone, north of Inle lake to Indein in the southwest. The journey is on mainly flat terrain and passes through stunning countryside with a variety of crops, including sugarcane. You also visit Khaung Daing, a little village on the northwest edge of the lake with some beautiful views that is well off the regular tourist trail and features several food-related cottage industries. On arrival in Indein you enter the Indein Pagoda, a temple with an impressive collection of ancient stupas. You then return to the lake and board
